AIRMED
International Flight School
20 years training pilots

PROFILE

Airmed International Flight School has been training commercial pilots for more than 20 years under the JAA (Joint Aviation Authorities) JAR-FCL rules.

During these years, Airmed has licensed more than 2.000 pilots and has flown more than 250,000 hours.

Wonderful weather is one of Airmed's main advantages. The climate in this part of the Mediterranean is excellent (80-90% days of sunshine per year) allowing for a greater number of flying hours.

The school is bathed in a multicultural atmosphere providing all the students with a favourable and rich working environment.

Our students come from all over Europe and some from South America and the Middle East too (Lebanon, Kuwait, Iran and Qatar).

Housing is managed by Airmed personnel so that all the students' requirements for comfort along with any services they may need are taken care of.
